iPhone app for ICT Contractors now with full support for Australian & NZ users

Contractor Expenses simplifies tracking and submission of expense and mileage claims together with providing the latest contracting news from leading contractor sites.

Now with full support for Australian I.T. Contractors / Freelancers - GST, Km claim rates, and contracting news.

Contractor Expenses is simple to use, but provides advanced features such as photo invoice/receipts, repeatable expenses, auto mileage rate allocation based on country specific rates/limits, multi-date selection for frequent journeys, data export in xml or configurable order csv, and other features designed to reduce data entry and focus on the requirements of I.T. Contractors.

Features include:

- Photo invoice/receipts
- Data export in XML or configurable order CSV with photo invoices zipped and attached
- Cumulative mileage/km calculation and auto allocation of mileage claim rates based on country specific limits
- Multi date and recent journeys selection drastically reduces data entry for visits to regular clients
- Latest contracting news collated from leading contracting site feeds
- Set expense items to repeat (i.e. for mobile phone bill), capture VAT, receipt reference, category and more

The creation of the app was borne from the frustration with generic expense and mileage apps of Eclipse Director and long term I.T Contractor, Steve Rennocks, “There’s just too much data entry required by most apps, and no focus on the specifics or working practices of any one industry”

Contractor Expenses is available now from the iTunes App Store.

HMRC's IR35 tax yield data reveals only £219,180 was paid by contractors in 2010/11

Contractors paid only £219,180 in IR35 tax in the 2010-2011 tax year. And in the same period there were only 23 reviews in which IR35 was considered to be a risk, according to new data published by HMRC. But could that all be about to change?

With a tax gap of £35bn and HMRC under pressure to increase yields from compliance activity, contracting sector experts fear this could be the 'calm before the storm'. It seems likely that HMRC's review of IR35 processes via the IR35 Forum could result in a renewed campaign targeting contractors.

The ever decreasing number of compliance reviews and tax yields over the last five tax years suggest that contractors have become savvy to HMRC's current IR35 investigation
